The Magnification of a Changing Referinghausen
Culture + Landscape

German Agriculture in Transition

1269-1939

- Centuries of subsistence agriculture with faith-based governance
  - Cultural identity shaped by common practice/faith (interdependent)

1939-1990

- 20th century nation-building subsidies
  - Government backed commercial farming (dependent)

1990-Current Day

- Integration into the EU CAP (Common Agricultural Policy) following reunification of Germany (1990)
  - Small scale farming no longer viable (independent)

**Without government subsidies, small/family farms must adapt or risk complete economic retreat.*

An aerial photograph of a town square during a festival. The square is filled with a large crowd of people. Several large white tents are set up on the left side. In the background, there are buildings, including a church with a steeple. A stage with a "LIVE" sign is visible in the middle ground. The overall scene is festive and busy.
